NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Police arrested 50 or more racial demonstrators in front of a segregated Nashville restaurant Wednesday, shortly after the firm obtained a temporary injunction to prevent demonstrators from interfering with business.

It was the third day this week of civil rights demonstrations, led by Negroes but including a few white men and women. Some of both races were arrested. Leaders say they are seeking a fully "open city."

Tempers flared and a few minor injuries were reported as policemen dragged demonstrators out of the street and loaded them into cars and patrol wagons. Automobile traffic was blocked briefly.

Cease-Fire On Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—The Greek Cypriot command ordered a cease-fire Wednesday in the mountain fighting for St. Hilarion Castle, U.N. Secretary-General U Thant followed up with an urgent appeal to Greek and Turkish Cypriots to renounce force in the Cyprus conflict.

With the Turks still in possession of the castle, a Turkish spokesman said the Greek cease-fire order sounded "like another Greek trick. We are suspicious of the peace."

Woman Juror Changes Mind

CHICAGO (AP) — A woman who changed her mind set off hours of verbal fireworks in the James R. Hoffa fraud and conspiracy trial in U.S. District Court Wednesday.

When the talking had ended, Judge Richard B. Austin dismissed Helen Cooper from the panel of four persons tentatively selected as jurors.

Mrs. Rooper and three men had been locked up in a hotel Tuesday night after their selection as possible jurors.

In court, Mrs. Cooper handed the judge a letter in which she said she is convinced she could not reach a verdict fair either to Hoffa, the Teamsters Union president, or the federal government.

New England GOP Enthused

BOSTON (AP) — Massachusetts Republicans have thrown their enthusiastic support behind the move to draft Governor Henry Cabot Lodge for the Republican presidential nomination.

In the state's presidential primary Tuesday, Lodge rolled to an impressive victory in the write-in preference column on the Republican ballot.

News of his Massachusetts victory prompted Lodge, in Saigon as U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, to comment: "It means much to me that my fellow citizens of Massachusetts have shown this confidence in me."

New Embassy In Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The million Americans who visit Mexico annually and the 55,000 who live here can now point with pride to their embassy as the newest, largest, most expensive, attractive and unusual in the country.

The earthquake-proof building is the second largest U.S. embassy in the world, exceeded only by London's. It cost $5 million.

Blatt Spurs Ahead Of Musmanno

Record Write-Ins Astonish Scranton

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Gov. William W. Scranton, saying he was astonished by his record 220,000 write-in votes in Pennsylvania's presidential preference primary, said again Wednesday he is not a candidate for the Republican nomination and never has been.

"I am astonished," he said in a statement from his home in Dalton, near Scranton. "Since I repeated time after time that I was not a candidate, I expected few votes. I am grateful to the men and women of Pennsylvania who have offered this expression of their confidence."

State Republican leaders, who facilitated a write-in with a distribution of stickers, pencils and rubber stamps, said they hoped the showing would convince the 46-year-old Scranton that he should become an active candidate. He is now in the second year of his first term as governor.

Craig Truax, state GOP chairman, said the vote is proof that "Scranton is a major force in Republican politics in America."

Although the write-in doesn't bind convention delegates, 52 of the 54 chosen in Tuesday's balloting have pledged to go to San Francisco in July uncommitted but supporting Scranton as his favorite son. This has been the governor's position. Only two of 13 delegate candidates favoring Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona were elected. Ten at-large delegates chosen last month by the Republican State Committee also are uncommitted.

Scranton garnered nearly 60 per cent of all the Republican write-ins to surpass the old record of 183,073 set in the 1960 Democratic primary by the late John F. Kennedy.

President Johnson, without any organized campaign, polled over 176,000 write-ins on the Democratic side, about 90 per cent of the vote cast. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy had 100,000.

Scranton Says Democratic Party 'Broken In Pieces'

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP)—Gov. William W. Scranton said Wednesday Pennsylvania primary election makes it "quite clear that the Democratic party is broken into pieces" in this state. He predicted that President Johnson will have a hard time in November.

At a news conference, Scranton reviewed Tuesday primary, touched on his meeting with President Johnson to discuss the Appalachia program and again said he is not a candidate for the presidency.

He predicted that a Republican presidential candidate "with a strong organization and money" has a very good chance of winning in November.

Scranton said the results of the primary show the President will have a "hard time in his own party in Pennsylvania in November," because of an "intermediate fight of major proportions."

He said the lead Genevieve Blatt now holds over Justice Michael A. Musmanno, of the Supreme Court, the organization candidate, for the Democratic Senate nomination reflects "a tendency to get away from boss rule."

He said Republican Sen. Hugh Scott will "win quite easily" in November.

Concerning the record write-in vote cast for him for presidential nomination, Scranton said it had not changed his position "one iota." That position, he told newsmen is still that he would become a candidate only as a result of a sincere and honest drive for control.

"It's a little remarkable since I'm not a candidate," he said of the write-in vote for him.

One questioned wanted to know whether Scranton cast a write-in vote for himself. The governor replied:

"I don't intend to do anything to assist my friends (who are seeking his nomination), so you can conclude from that how I voted."

Flying Object Mystery

SOCORRO, N.M. (AP)—One of the things that bothers the scientist investigating New Mexico's unidentified flying object reports for the Air Force is the lack of mention of radar contacts.

"It's my understanding New Mexico is infested with radar equipment," said Dr. J. Allen Hynek of Northwestern University, an astronomer who is a special consultant to the Air Force. "I'm going to check to see if there have been radar contacts that might tie into these reports."

Hynek visited Wednesday the secluded hill where Socorro policeman Lonnie Zamora reported seeing an egg-shaped object fly away from a draw last Friday evening. Other reports have followed. The Socorro report and another at La Madera in northern New Mexico were similar in that state and military authorities confirmed a scorched area where the object was supposed to have landed, and wedge-shaped impressions that appeared to have been left by some type of landing gear.

Hynek would not offer an opinion on just what Zamora did see.

Sen. Clark Now Undisputed Boss Of State Democrats

By JAMES E. WALTERS
Associated Press Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—U.S. Sen. Joseph S. Clark seemed to have emerged as the undisputed boss of Pennsylvania Democrats, climaxing an 18-month drive for control.

After his election in November, 1962, to a second six-year term in the Senate, Clark, who rose to power as a reform candidate for mayor of Philadelphia began what he described at the time as "an earnest and long-range effort to remake the image of the Democratic party in time for the 1964 elections."

"It's not a question of a power struggle," Clark said then. "The last thing I'm interested in is becoming political boss of Pennsylvania."

By Wednesday, however, after the showing of his candidate, Genevieve Blatt, against the organization-backed Michael Musmanno for the U.S. Senate nomination — it was difficult to see who might be considered a challenger to Clark's control.

William Green Jr., long-time boss of Philadelphia Democrats, is dead. His successor in Philadelphia, Francis R. Smith, bitterly attacked by Clark, failed to deliver the 100,000 majority he promised for Musmanno in the city. Musmanno won here by about 60,000 but trailed statewide by around 2,000 with only a handful of precincts, plus the absentee ballot, to be counted.

Smith, Mayor James H. J. Tate of Philadelphia, former Gov. David Lawrence, Mayor Joseph Barr of Pittsburgh — just about every leading Democrat in the state except Clark — went down the line for Musmanno. The state committee was solidly in back of him publicly.

Admittedly, Miss Blatt is a strong vote-getter in her own right — the first woman elected to statewide office in Pennsylvania, three times elected secretary of internal affairs. She also is secretary of the state committee, and a long-time party stalwart.

But, so the reports go, she wavered for a time whether to yield to party loyalty and accept the state committee decision to support Musmanno. This was particularly so on Feb. 21, when Milton Shapp, who had some support in the state committee when it endorsed Musmanno, withdrew in the Justice's favor.

Commented Clark on Shapp's withdrawal: "I regret his decision, which I think is neither in his own nor the party's best interest." Clark declined to explain this further.

Miss Blatt stayed in the race and, as things warmed up, it sometimes seemed the campaign was between Clark and Musmanno. Clark attacked Musmanno on a bewildering array of grounds that the Justice interpreted as attacks on his record as a judge, his service in the armed forces in two wars, his ancestry, his religion, if he always was known as Musmanno, and his qualifications for the Senate.

Clark's drive for control of the party began after his own election with Clark's public statements about the party's need for reform in the state and better candidates. Clark continued it in the 1963 primaries and mayoral elections, refusing to endorse — and even speaking against — certain Democratic mayors and district attorneys who, he felt, were a detriment to the party. Most of those he opposed lost.

11 Congressmen Beat Challengers

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Distribution of Pennsylvania's 27 congressional seats was restored to 14 Republicans and 13 Democrats as the result of 25-year-old Democrat William J. Green III's defeat of Republican labor leader Edward H. Rovner yesterday in a special election in Philadelphia's Fifth District.

Green will fill out the inexperienced term of his late father, William J. Green Jr., longtime Philadelphia Democratic chairman who died last December.

In all, five Democratic and five Republican incumbent congressmen staged off challengers to win nominations for two-year terms. Eight Republican and seven Democratic incumbents were nominated for new terms without opposition.

What was expected to be a close Republican race in the eight-county 23rd District turned into a virtual landslide for incumbent Rep. Albert W. Johnson of Smethport. Johnson, for years the GOP floor leader in the state House of Representatives, was elected to Congress last year after the death of Leon Gavin of Oil City. He will face Democratic nominee John Still of Bradford in November. Johnson won by nearly 11,000 votes over State Sen. Richard C. Frame of Franklin, who had campaigned to upset him.

Princess' Parents Miss Her Wedding

ROME (AP) — In a Roman carnival of excitement, Princess Irene and Prince Carlos of Bourbon-Parma, for whom she gave up all rights to the Dutch throne, were wed Wednesday.

She often was solemn, possibly thinking of the twist of fate that kept her royal parents at home.

The golden haired princess, 25, and Carlos, 34, claimant to the Spanish throne, exchanged vows in the Basilica of St. Mary Major and then received the blessing of Pope Paul VI at the Vatican.

Police had to struggle with the cheering crowds to get the couple into the church and out again.

A rebel princess who defied her government and a Protestant tradition to embrace Catholicism and marry Carlos, Irene was subdued and reflective through much of the ceremony. But she always seemed in full control of her emotions.

The strains of the Dutch anthem and the cheers of Dutch tourists provided a touch of Holland. But the flavor of the wedding day was decidedly Spanish and Carlist, for Carlos is of that branch of the Bourbon family and lays claim to the now-vacant Spanish throne.

For the strong-willed young princess who has vowed to support Carlos' bid for the Spanish throne, there were a few things to soften the sting of the absence of her parents, Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard.

She knew the royal family had joined other Dutch in watching the ceremony on television—although a power failure caused them to miss the last part. And for nine minutes shortly before she left for the church, she had talked by telephone with her mother in Amsterdam.

Then her chief antagonist, Premier Jan Marijn, arose in the Dutch Senate, offered congratulations to the couple, and noted that now "the constitutional position of Princess Irene in our midst has now come to an end."

It was Marijn's government that insisted the queen and her consort boycott the wedding to avoid involvement in Spanish politics. And it was Marijn who insisted that Irene renounce her position as second in line to the Dutch throne. Princess Beatrix, 26, is first in line.

Absentee Votes Key To Winner

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Genevieve Blatt, secretary of internal affairs, who campaigned against the Democratic organization on the anti-busban platform, clung Wednesday to a slim lead in the battle with Supreme Court Justice Michael A. Musmanno for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

Neither side claimed or conceded anything as slow-counted votes from all corners of the state trickled in by 10s and 20s and 100s to put the 30-year-old Miss Blatt ahead at noon, 15 hours after the polls closed in Pennsylvania's rainy primary.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The counting of an estimated 10,000 absentee ballots scheduled to start May 8 probably will decide who is Pennsylvania's Democratic senatorial candidate, Justice Michael A. Musmanno or Genevieve Blatt.

Miss Blatt held a slim lead in the race with nearly all the 9,281 precincts in.

Political observers estimated there were 5,000 to 20,000 absentee Democratic ballots out. Preliminary Associated Press figures from 46 counties placed the figure about 8,500. Politicians estimated there were about 1,000 Democratic absentee ballots in Philadelphia. There was no word on the number in the other counties.

More than 6,700 are out in counties that Musmanno led, based on AP's other figures. Musmanno, at first refusing to comment, finally said "this election is so close it may require a recount."

The 67-year-old bachelor, a member of the state's highest tribunal for 14 years and before that a state representative and Allegheny County judge, was endorsed by the Democratic state organization of which Miss Blatt is secretary.

Miss Blatt, strongly supported by Sen. Joseph S. Clark, entered the race as an independent, said that only she could win the seat now held by Republican Hugh Scott.

Scott, 8 to 1 winner over a political unknown, said he was gratified by his easy nomination which demonstrated "vitality and unity" of the GOP and then appealed for Democratic and independent voter support on his behalf in November.

Altogether, about two million of Pennsylvania's 5.3 million registered voters cast ballots—roughly half for each party. That represents about 38 per cent of the electorate, a substantial showing in a primary that was marred by rain over most of the state.

Write-ins in the presidential preference primary—there were no names on the ballots—reached record proportions.

Gov. Scranton led the GOP contenders with more than 220,000—a write-in record for any party—while President Johnson garnered nearly all the Democratic write-ins, exceeding 180,000.

With 19 precincts missing out of 9,261, Miss Blatt had 454,020 votes. Musmanno received 450,824 and Roberts, the third candidate, received 91,940.

Incomplete figures for President, which do not bind delegates elected to the national conventions of the two parties, were:

Republican — Scranton 219,141; Henry Cabot Lodge 79,442; former vice president Richard M. Nixon 36,621; Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona 32,210; Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York 7,143; Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine 573; Gov. George Romney of Michigan 443; Harold Stassen 156.

Democrat—President Johnson 176,176; Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy 10,460; Gov. George Wallace of Alabama, 3,250.

Wallace, who advocates segregation, also rolled up 812 votes on Republican ballots in Beaver County, a Philadelphia suburb where violence during recent civil rights demonstrations over alleged segregated public schools.

Candidates were nominated for four other statewide races—two judges of the superior court, state treasurer and auditor general.

There was opposition only for auditor, with state Treasurer Grace Sloan—a Democrat seeking to trade posts with Thomas Z. Minehart—winning easily over Samuel G. Neff, 50, of Beaver Falls. She will face W. Stuart Helm, 54, Kittanning, Republican speaker of the state house over representatives, in November.

Churchmen Fear Prayers In School

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of church leaders expressed fear and alarm Wednesday at proposals to amend the Constitution to permit prayers and Bible reading in public schools.

In testimony before the House Judiciary Committee, the churchmen called classroom recitation of prayers and scriptures meaningless spiritually and dangerous as a step toward state-controlled religion.

Their testimony was the first from the public taken by the committee, which has heard more than 30 members of Congress call for an amendment that would nullify the Supreme Court's rulings against official school prayers and required Bible reading.

Three more members made a similar plea just before the churchmen testified. Edwin H. Tuller, general secretary of the American Baptist Convention, said the First Amendment to the Constitution has served the nation well and should be left alone.

A similar position was taken by Eugene Carson Blake, head of the United Presbyterian Church. He counseled Congress against "attempting to enlist the power of government to strengthen the forces of faith."

U. S.-Soviets Disagree On Overflights

MOSCOW (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Roy D. Kohler and the Soviet first deputy premier, Anastas I. Mikoyan, argued Wednesday over whether the United States has the right to continue U2 flights over Cuba.

It was the first personal confrontation the two countries have had over the issue. Their conversation at a diplomatic cocktail party was amiable in tone but the subject matter was explosive.

The U.S. ambassador reaffirmed President John F. Kennedy's view that the United States had the right to continue the flights because Cuba's prime minister, Fidel Castro, had refused on-site inspection to confirm withdrawal of Soviet missiles.

Mikoyan, who went to Cuba in the 1962 crisis, repeated the Soviet contention that such flights had no legality under international law.

Rooney Pushes Planning For Tocks Dam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Fred B. Rooney, D-Pa., said Wednesday the Tocks Island Dam and reservoir will mean the difference between prosperity and paralysis for the Delaware River Valley in Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

He urged a House appropriations subcommittee to approve the $450,000 requested by President Johnson to continue planning the project, the largest proposed by the Delaware River Basin commission.

Rooney said the very few opponents of the Tocks Island project apparently have short memories and have already forgotten the 1955 floods in the Pocono Mountains which killed almost 100 persons.

He said the Tocks Island Dam would be the best possible insurance to guard against any such future tragedy.

"I have been deeply disturbed, during recent months especially, by the casual manner in which a very few opponents of the dam have tried to underplay and down-grade the importance of Tocks Island as a flood control measure."

"These people, it seems to me, must have very short memories."

"Looking back to 1955, in the month of August, I do not see how anyone, in good conscience, could oppose this reservoir's construction."

"That month, near the height of the Pocono Mountains summer vacation season, saw the worst natural disaster in the area's history strike the communities along the Delaware River and, in Monroe County, Broadheads and McMichaels Creeks."

"Lives Lost"

"Nearly a hundred lives were lost and more than a hundred million dollars worth of property was destroyed."

"The heavily-populated regions of Monroe County, where the flood did its greatest damage, set about the enormous task of rebuilding after the disaster was over."

"It is a tribute to the resourcefulness and courage of the people of that county and my own native Northampton County that the job of reconstruction and debris clearance was accomplished within months, rather than years."

"It is imperative that they should never be forced to undertake such a terrible burden again . . . and Tocks Island Dam is the best insurance they could possibly have against such a tragedy."

"The people of the Pocono Mountains in my district are overwhelmingly in favor of Tocks Island Dam."

"They are for it, not only because of the direct benefits it will offer them, but also because they know the water supply needs of the metropolitan regions which lie along the Delaware River and they approve of any measure which will insure that those needs are met through adequate and properly controlled conservation methods."

Tourism Cited

"One of the major industries in my congressional district is tourism. The Pocono Mountains are among the most scenic and beautiful in our nation and the resort hotels and inns which are located in those mountains are also among the nation's finest."

"The recreation area is not at issue in these hearings, of course. But the construction of Tocks Island Dam is the first step, I hope, toward ultimate approval of this measure."

"The $450,000 request in this budget for Tocks Island is a minimum request. Without it the Corps of Engineers, which has labored so long and so diligently toward construction of this project with the full approval of the people in my area and the state of Pennsylvania, will not be able to proceed in its planning and engineering."

"I urge the committee to consider it carefully and give its wholehearted approval."

"These projects are vital because they are solid investments in the future of my district and all of Pennsylvania."

State News Roundup

Smoking Story For Young Press

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — High school reporters and editors will attend a news conference especially for them at Hahnemann Medical College May 7 at which medical experts will explain the smoking-lung cancer controversy and answer their questions.

Dr. Charles S. Cameron, president of Hahnemann, said he believes the student newspaper is the most effective means of presenting facts about smoking to large numbers of young people.

Taking part in the conference will be Dr. Michael B. Shimkin, chief of cancer biology at Temple University School of Medicine; Dr. Van Buren O. Hammett, professor of psychiatry at Hahnemann; Dr. Oscar Auerbach, professor of pathology at New York Medical College, and Dr. E. Cuyler Hammond, director of the statistical research section of the American Cancer Society.

Phone Company Gets Go-Sign

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Public Utility Commission, after a month of study, told the Bell Telephone Co. of Pennsylvania Wednesday that it can put a net $2.1 million annual rate reduction into effect Monday.

The reduction results from sweeping rate changes proposed by Bell which would provide decreases amounting to $4.5 million and increases totaling $2.4 million for subscribers across the state.

Although the new schedules were filed formally with the PUC only last week, the commission had the changes under study since March.

In its petition, Bell said it intends to spend almost $2.3 million this year on service improvements as part of a 3½-year construction plan totaling $8.4 million.

Eminent Domain Plan Backed

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Pennsylvania Bar Association stamped its endorsement Wednesday on the Scranton administration's proposed eminent domain program and called for prompt action in the legislature.

"While not perfect, the bill will go a long way toward making desirable procedural reforms that will benefit all of our citizens," said S. Knox Hunter, past chairman of the association's section on real property, probate and trust law.

Seven Day Truce In Chester

CHESTER, Pa. (UPI) — Two civil rights groups whose demonstration led to outbreaks of violence during the past five weeks said Wednesday that they would suspend all demonstrations for the next seven days.

The joint announcement came from the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) and the Committee For Freedom Now (CFN) in the wake of a Delaware County Court order banning any demonstrations on or near school property.

Sit-ins at school buildings in a protest of alleged de facto segregation charged to the Chester school board led to the closing of the schools last Thursday.

The district's high school reopened Monday, and the junior high school and elementary schools resumed classes Tuesday.

Judge John V. Diggins issued a temporary injunction against the NAACP and the CFN, and their officers Tuesday restraining them from conducting any demonstration or on or near the school properties after two days of hearings.

The order also directed no attempt could be made to prevent pupils from entering buildings, or induce them to remain away from school.

Officers of the two groups said there would be a temporary suspension of protest activities.

"They said this was to permit city and state officials to 'demonstrate a real concern and good faith by taking meaningful steps to deal with the school situation, and to do something about the charge of police brutality.'"

"The Pennsylvania Human Relations Commission will meet next Monday to study the problem, including the segregation charges made by the groups."

Democrat-Backed Judges Win Easily

By The Associated Press
Judges J. Sydney Hoffman of Philadelphia and Robert Lee Jacobs of Cumberland County Common Pleas Court, both organization-backed candidates, easily won the Democratic nominations for two berths on the state superior court in a five-way contest in Tuesday's primary.

Incumbent Republican Robert E. Woodside and Philadelphia attorney Joseph E. Bruno were unopposed on the Republican side.

State treasurer Grace M. Sloan won handily in her bid to trade jobs with Auditor General Thomas Z. Minehart next November. Both are Democrats. Minehart, 56, of Montgomery county, had no opposition.

Mrs. Sloan defeated Samuel G. Neff, 50, of Beaver falls, a former state senator and one-time head of a steelworkers' union.

Political Unknown Beats Taylor

HARRISBURG (AP) — The 24-year Senate career of M. Harvey Taylor, for a half-century a power in Republican state politics, came to a surprising end in Tuesday's primary election.

Taylor, the 87-year-old president pro tempore of the chamber, suffered a stunning upset at the hands of a political unknown William B. Lentz, a 45-year-old realtor from Millersburg.

Unofficial returns gave Lentz a 3,000-vote victory over the spry octogenarian who was seeking his seventh term in the Senate.

Taylor was one of two incumbents to be beaten in the primary balloting for 25 Senate nominations.

The other was Sen. John Carl Miller, D-Beaver, who lost to Ernest P. Kline, former Beaver Falls councilman and workmen's compensation referee.

In a special election, House Majority Whip Morton H. Fetterolf Jr. of Whitmarsh Twp. was elected to fill the remaining two years of the unexpired term of the late Sen. Henry J. Probert, R-Montgomery, defeating Daniel S. Brady.

Besides his acknowledged power as a political figure, Taylor also had the personal endorsement of Gov. Scranton — the only candidate backed by the chief executive in the primary.

Lentz, whose only public office was six years on the Millersburg Borough Council, said Wednesday that he was confident of victory from the beginning of his campaign, although he conceded few people thought he could win.

He entered the campaign, he said, because he felt people "were getting tired of Taylor spending more time on his insurance business than on Senate duties."

Lentz will contest Democrat Edward J. Brown of Harrisburg in November for Taylor's 15th senatorial district seat. The district is a traditional Republican stronghold. Brown was unopposed in the Democratic primary.

Taylor said: "The people of Dauphin County have made their decision and I will abide by their decision. I will support the ticket of their choice . . . I take with me a heart full of gratitude and a soul full of precious memories."

Scranton had no immediate comment on Taylor's defeat.

Republican State Chairman Craig Truax said he was "hurt and deeply shocked."

Fetterolf's election restored the GOP to its 27-member majority delegation.

The Democrats have 22 members in the chamber with one vacancy in their ranks due to the death of Sen. Gus Verona, D-Norampton. That vacancy will be filled later at a special election.

Police identified the driver as Walter Horman, of Allentown, owner of Wally's News Stand. Whitehouse lived at 536 N. Matile St.

Dean For Dental School

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Dr. Charles L. Howell, assistant dean of the Indiana University School of Dentistry, was named Wednesday as dean of the Temple University School of Dentistry.

He succeeds Dr. Gerald D. Timmons, who will retire in June after 22 years in the post.

Howell is a native of Chalmers, Ind., and a Fellow of the American College of Dentistry.

Henry Cabot Lodge

Petrosky Loses

18 Incumbents Defeated

HARRISBURG (AP) — Eighteen incumbents, including Minority Leader Anthony J. Petrosky, were defeated Tuesday in their bids for reappointment to new two-year terms in the state house of representatives.

But one of the most stunning upsets involved Rep. Blaine Harker, a nine-term incumbent, who defeated the powerful Dauphin County Republican organization in his unopposed bid for nomination to a 10th consecutive term.

Harker was dumped in the primary by the organization

WASHINGTON (AP) — Massachusetts and Pennsylvania primaries apparently moved Henry Cabot Lodge closer to active competition for the GOP presidential nomination but failed to judge Gov. William W. Scranton.

A hefty write-in vote Tuesday for Lodge in Massachusetts, plus a respectable showing in Pennsylvania, seemed likely to put fresh pressure on the U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam to come home and seek his party's nomination.

No Political Comment
In Saigon, Lodge, who has declined political comment, said merely that "It means much to me that my fellow citizens of Massachusetts have shown this confidence in me."

Pennsylvania's Scranton, who professed to be astonished at the write-in vote given to him in his state, added in a statement at his home in Dalton: "I am not a candidate and have made this very plain. Since I repeated time after time that I was not a candidate, I expected few votes."

Would Accept Draft
He has said he would accept a nomination if he is drafted

after a stalemate as the San Francisco nomination convention, but professes to believe this is unlikely.

Scranton got a record write-in and around 60 per cent of the Republican vote in his home state. This showing clearly fell short of the hopes of GOP State Chairman Craig Truax, who had organized a write-in drive and had provided a million Scranton name stickers in an effort to nudge the governor into an active candidacy.

The final tabulations appeared likely to give Scranton about 225,000 votes and the favorite-son backing of most of the state's 61 nominating convention votes.

No Campaign
Without any visible campaign effort for him, Lodge polled about 20 per cent of the Pennsylvania GOP vote. As the count progressed, he was piling up a total that exceeded the combined write-ins for Sen. Barry Goldwater, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York.

In Massachusetts, Lodge had defeated Mrs. Leo McKeever, who was attempting to replace her late husband.

Hypocrite's victory increased the Republican majority in the house to 110, as opposed to 100 for the Democrats.

headed by Sen. M. Harvey Taylor, who was upset by a political unknown in his bid for a seventh term in the senate.

Petrosky, a 24-year veteran of the house, was defeated by a fellow Democratic incumbent, Rep. Gust L. Stennice in Westmoreland County's 2nd district.

Another major casualty was Rep. Austin Lee, R-Phila., who lost his seat to his ward leader in the city, Wilbur Hamilton.

A third incumbent to lose his seat was Frank P. Crossin, D-Luzerne, the Democratic delegation's policy chairman. He was whipped by incumbent Democrat Fred P. Shupnick. They, too, were thrown into one district by the reapportionment act.

In special elections, both parties split the four vacancies on the ballot, but the GOP gained one seat by winning a normally Democratic seat in Philadelphia.

That contest saw Republican Edward Hippel, who also won nomination on the GOP ticket for a full two-year term in No-a runaway victory, piling up more than three times the combined vote totals for his three major rivals.

Lodge showed strength among Democrats, too, pulling about 5 per cent of the total that President Johnson rolled up to win in his party's presidential preference balloting.

Johnson walked away from the popular contest. Johnson staged a runaway in write-ins in Pennsylvania, polling about 18 times as many votes as Kennedy, who has been mentioned as a possible Democratic vice-presidential nominee.

Night Classes Slated For E-Burg In Fall

EAST STROUDSBURG — Educators and representatives from area industry and business discussed recently the starting of night classes in fields of higher education at a meeting in East Stroudsburg High School.

Classes in general engineering technology, business administration, business accounting, and real estate field are scheduled to start in September.

Thomas Wright, a professor at Pennsylvania State University, spoke on a program called general engineering technology. He said the program is applicable to presently employed workers and for those just preparing to enter the labor market.

The proposed curriculum included the fundamentals of industrial and electrical and mechanical engineering fields.

Edward J. Connelley, also from Pennsylvania State University, told the meeting of the subject area offerings in the field of business administration and accounting. He said these courses include secretarial shorthand and typing.

He added that in addition to these offerings, professional level courses in the field of real estate and engineering for individuals already productively engaged, could be made available to the community, from Penn State University.

Attending the meeting, in addition to the representatives were Carl Secor, supervising principal of East Stroudsburg Area Schools; Dr. Albert Sumberg, faculty member at East Stroudsburg State College; John Vaneria, Monroe Security Bank and Trust Co. of Stroudsburg; Claude Cramer, East Stroudsburg National Bank; Ralph Bender, of Stroudsburg.

Every Vote Counts

There are two women in Pennsylvania today who know that every vote counts.

Miss Genevieve Blatt, Pennsylvania Secretary of Internal Affairs, held a precarious 3,462-vote lead yesterday in her amazing battle against state Democratic party leaders.

With most of the election returns in yesterday, Miss Blatt was leading in 58 of the state's 67 counties.

Her opponent, Justice Michael A. Musmanno of the State Supreme Court, took large leads in the Pittsburgh area counties of Allegheny, Beaver, Fayette, Westmoreland, Lawrence, and Washington Counties, in the Scranton-Wilkes-Barre counties of Lackawanna and Luzerne and in Philadelphia County.

But with only a 3,462-vote lead in a total of 903,936, the absentee and military ballots still uncounted will probably settle the issue and Justice Musmanno was talking yesterday of the possibility of a statewide vote recount. (See county by county tabulations on Page 7.)

Win or lose, Miss Blatt and U. S. Senator Joseph Clark who backed her vigorously have already accomplished a major political upset. They have effectively taken the leadership of the Democratic party in Pennsylvania away from the present party organization. (See story on Page 1.)

While Miss Blatt is biting her nails in Harrisburg, Mrs. Mary Fontanella of Cresco is in similar agony in her race for delegate to the Republican State Committee from Monroe County.

After the votes were in Tuesday night, Mrs. Fontanella held an 11-vote lead over former Monroe County Republican Chairman Parke Unangst of Shawnee.

This close vote will also have to be settled when absentee and military ballots are counted in Monroe County on May 8. There are 124 ballots in this category—75 Republican and 49 Democratic.

Mrs. Fontanella surprised many Monroe County Republicans with her 1,511 to 1,500 margin, although she was not involved in a loud and bitter interparty battle like that waged by Miss Blatt.

Political races like these should awaken voters to the fact that their vote does count, that it is worth their effort to go to the polls, even in the rain, and even in a supposedly unimportant party primary.

Scranton's Write-In

The 220,000 presidential primary write-in vote for Republican Governor William Scranton, while short of the 300,000 once hoped for by pro-Scranton forces, was a very respectable showing for a reluctant candidate on a rainy day.

To be sure, many of the one million stickers circulated in the state to help voters write-in Scranton's name never got to the polls.

The Scranton for President campaign started late, never really got up steam, and lost its spirit when Scranton said for the 100th time that he was not interested in running for President.

But 220,000 votes is a new Pennsylvania write-in record. It broke the old record, posted by the late John F. Kennedy in his 1960 campaign for the Presidency. Kennedy won 183,073 write-in votes.

The real surprise in the Presidential write-in vote was the second place standing of Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge who won 80,000 votes and ran far ahead of avowed Republican candidates Sen. Barry Goldwater and Governor Nelson Rockefeller.

Whether it is due to consistent high standing in public opinion polls and the attendant publicity, or to a more lasting grass-roots political support, Ambassador Lodge is establishing himself as more than a local favorite in New Hampshire and Massachusetts.

Lodge's unexpectedly high Pennsylvania vote will push him into serious contention for the Republican Presidential nomination. There is one major difference between Lodge and Scranton. Scranton has said he doesn't want the nomination. Lodge has not said any such thing.

Comment Of The Day

"Private citizens and public officials don't have to be loose with a dollar to prove they are liberals—or callous to prove they are conservative."

"I believe this government must be more frugal without becoming less compassionate at home."
—President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Cranston Quips

WASHINGTON — California State Controller Alan Cranston, one of the three contestants for the Democratic senatorial nomination, has been pictured hereabouts as a colorful, dry-as-dust fellow. Maybe he appears that way in California, where every plus and minus is magnified. But in Washington he turned out to be a bit of a comic.

Cranston went on local display in the auditorium of the National Press Club, which one of his rivals, Pierre Salinger, filled to overflowing. Cranston drew only the California Congressmen already committed to him, and club members who felt they had to eat somewhere, and might as well have oratory to keep their minds off the food.

It couldn't be that Pierre was more of a draw because he's prettier. As Cranston himself said, "Pierre is short, stout and hirsute, while I am long, lean and always on time."

From what Cranston said I figured that hirsute meant punctual. Imagine the jolt when I consulted Webster and read "hirsute (see horror), rough with hair; set with bristles; shaggy. Bot. pubescent with rather coarse, stiff hairs."

I guess I have scrutinized Pierre Salinger a thousand times when he was White House press secretary, but I never once thought of him as Bot. pubescent with rather coarse stiff hairs. Not once did it ever occur to me to look him up under "horror." Shows how you can overlook things.

However, the non-hirsute, but billiard-bald Mr. Cranston got right down to cases. In the very intellectual question-and-answer session that follows all press club speeches he was asked about the women, especially young women, who put on a show of going ga-ga over Salinger, as if he were a Beethoven.

Question: "Is Salinger a sex symbol for teen-age girls?" Answer: "Just another example of news management by Salinger."

Now you gotta admit that's no dry-as-dust answer. But Cranston was even more dustless when asked: "Why are there so many nut organizations in California?" "There are so many people coming from other states," answered Cranston.

Of course, Cranston got a pretty good vaudeville run-on by Clark R. Mollenhoff, who took time off from asking President Johnson galling questions to introduce the speaker. Rival Comedian Mollenhoff opened with: "Mr. Cranston is a liberal who believes in social programs. When he heard about the investigation of Bobby Baker he asked: 'Isn't he that nice social worker type who started the housing project for working girls?'"

Mr. Mollenhoff said that Cranston's rival is cavorting with California cuties who bill themselves as "Sweethearts for Salinger." He propounded the question: "How can you fight a guy whose program is 'Love and Lunch'?"

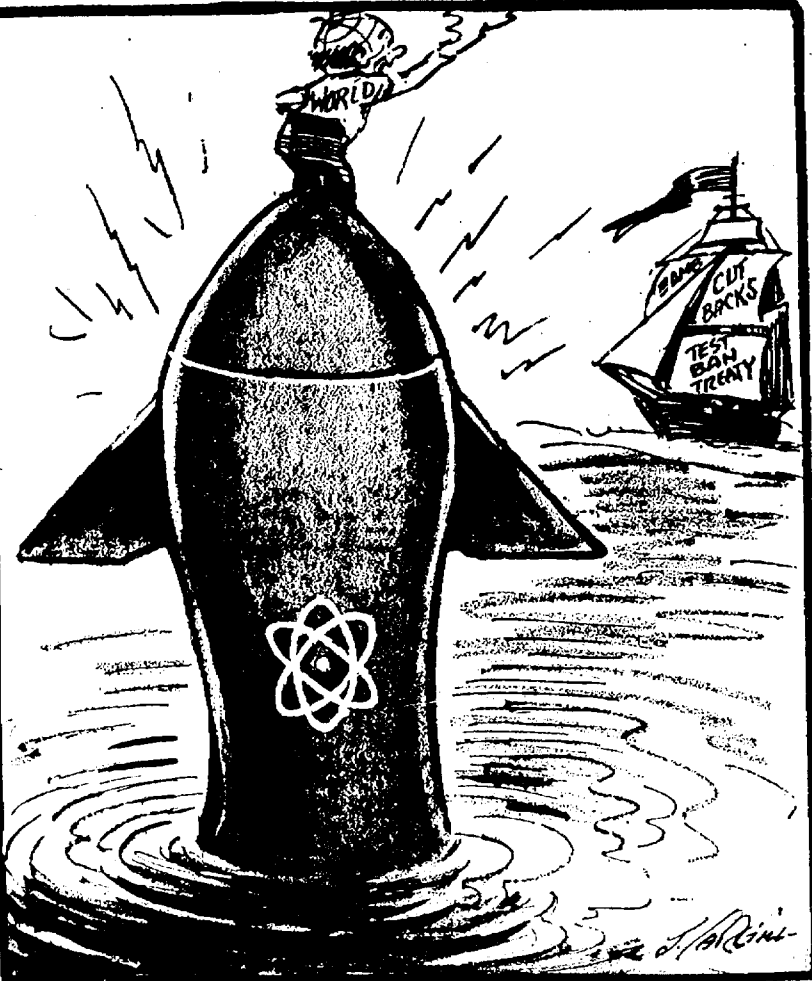

It is always considered a handicap for one comedian to follow another, but Cranston didn't quail. In fact, not a quail was flushed. The Controller's warm-up gag was: "Where else but in California could Pierry run for the Senate in an election in which he is not even eligible to vote?"

Cranston got a hearty laugh from everybody except former Secretary of the Navy Dan Kimball when he said: "We need some help from the Federal Government — and I am not at the moment talking about aerospace contracts."

Kimball, who is both head of Cranston's team and President of Aerojet, looked as embarrassed as when he ditched ailing Senator Clair Engle for Cranston.

In a burst of candor seldom heard from a senatorial candidate, Cranston said that he appoints the tax assessors in California, and that all 158 of them are out campaigning for him.

Cranston didn't wait for applause or laughter. He ran over some of his best lines, playing straight ahead. But so did President Ken-

'Brinkmanship'

The Pennsylvania Story

Campaign Costs

By Mason Denison
HARRISBURG — With the Pennsylvania primary campaign and election out of the way, concentration now of course centers around the upcoming fall general election—but with all this goes one headache in particular in this presidential election year 1964.

Fundamentally this revolves around the question of finding the tremendous sum of money necessary to underwrite such a campaign.

For the record it should be noted that neither major party in the Keystone State by any stretch of the imagination is on the brink of filing bankruptcy proceedings.

Both Democrats and Republicans are fairly solvent. Both at this point enjoy modest wren nest eggs to cover normal operational procedures. Neither has had a fight with the sheriff of late.

However this isn't quite the point. Twice in every four-year span state headquarters of both parties are pressed quite heavily on the financial front — one being the quadrennial race for the governorship, the other being the quadrennial race for the presidency.

The former is out of the way at the moment. This year it's the presidential scramble that will be gnawing at the rusty hinges of the bank vaults of both parties—and the gnawing can become quite noisy and a bit on the violent side at times.

More so in recent years than ever before Pennsylvania — big, sprawling, populous, industrial and vote-heavy Pennsylvania — has become a enticing plum in presidential strategy computations. This is because the state has become almost a toss-up in which way it might letter.

Only a comparatively few years ago there was no question — it almost invariably tilted in favor of a Republican sweep.

The advent and rise of Keystone State donkey riders a decade ago changed this staid pattern, reducing any great "sweep" to the proportions of a dusting operation that could swing either way.

In years gone by when Democrats were so far down the minority pole that there was serious question as to whether they were even there, they couldn't muster enough money to contribute to the race for sweeper of the village curbs.

Thus while virtually an important force, opposition Republicans had little need to worry and spend great sums in the Keystone State; the Commonwealth swung into the Republican column anyway!

That was the status up to a comparatively few years ago; a status that changed somewhat abruptly and dramatically with the coming eight years ago of (surprised) Democratic rule in 1955.

It was during this period that Democrats built up their party coffers in quite fetching fashion; in fact they far outshone their near-bankrupt GOP counterparts who were busy wallowing in the depressing mire of defeat and the minority party status for once.

By the time the 1961 gubernatorial election rolled around, Keystone State Republicans were just about "kaput" financially; Democrats on the other hand were riding the financial rocket "a-okay" (for a change).

With the Republican Scrantonian sweep of 1961, affairs fiscal for the elephant riders changed drastically as once again as the ruling party their coffers began to fill and fill and fill.

The net result is that today as both parties head into the 1964 presidential campaign in earnest, both will be found in nominally fine financial condition — basically.

Two well-heeled presidential campaigns — well-heeled basically, that is — are in the offing for Pennsylvania this year, but the overall cost of conducting a presidential effort that amounts to something more than a basket of dehydrated turnips is another story completely.

Extra funds will have to be raised by both parties; quite a tremendous volume in fact. This then becomes the potentially crucial point; the crux of which revolves around which can produce the best, most effective campaign.

The registration edge enjoyed by Democrats is just about nil; nil enough to make this factor even-Stephen. Basic finances are just about even-Stephen. These two points are where the similarity ends.

Republicans this year are the "in-office" party and therefore enjoy considerably edge in the extra fund-raising department, although both are going all-out in a fast and heavy gamble on carrying Pennsylvania in the presidential this year.

For one party there will be a heavy pay-off — although for both it will mean going into hock!

Answers to these and a wide range of related questions are being sought in a concentrated study at the University of Florida College of Medicine.

Volunteer medical students are being subjected to brain wave studies during sleep in specially constructed, sound-proof, and temperature-controlled rooms. Often they are interrupted in the middle of a lovely dream and abruptly awakened for testing of their coordination and speed of response.

Four Levels — Already the information gathered seems to indicate that there are four levels of depth of sleep. These range from the very light sleep to the deep sleep.

Interesting findings show that every individual has his own sleep patterns that hardly vary from one night to the next. It is estimated that most people have about two hours of concentrated "deep" sleep each night.

Almost invariably, this deep stage occurs in the very beginning of sleep. This period, apparently, is the most restful part of the entire night's sleep.

It hasn't been easy. But it has been worthwhile as sellout crowds to concerts of the years show.

East Stroudsburg always has been known for its top musicians. From the heyday of Wiedmeyer to Zellner, the Eastburg band has created a professional image across the state.

We imagine the efforts of the Band Mothers had a lot to do with molding this high ranking.

Today's officers — Twenty-five years ago, time to be in the band business. But that's what the Band Mothers of East Stroudsburg high are celebrating this year.

A lot of champs have passed through the quarter of century that the Eastburg ladies have sweated and toiled toward the support of the musicians on the north side of the Brodheads Creek.

Over that span, too, more than $35,000 has been contributed by the organization for instruments, uniforms, guest conductors, scholarships and traveling expenses.

Most important, though, has been the moral support given first, Clement Wiedmeyer, and now Robert Zellner, band directors deluxe at the school at North Courtland St.

It was Wiedmeyer, head of the music department, who helped the Band Mothers through the early days of its existence. In 1938, Clem and the group's officers—Mrs. Walter Wildrick, president; Mrs. Walter Bronner, vice presi-

The Allen-Scott Report

Infiltration Plan

WASHINGTON — The Junta Revolucionaria Cubana (JURE) is set to open an active guerrilla underground in the Communist-ruled island in May—on the assurance that the U.S. Navy and Coast Guard will not interfere with the "infiltration" of men and supplies.

That promise was given Manuel Ray, leader of JURE, last week. He and members of his "Leadership Committee" conferred with top Johnson administration officials, including the Central Intelligence Agency.

Still pending are two other JURE requests: Several million dollars in funds, light arms and communications equipment.

Intelligence information, particularly from U-2 reconnaissance flights.

Ray told administration authorities that JURE is confident a guerrilla beachhead can be firmly established and publicly announced around May 20, Cuban Independence Day.

He claims to have a trained guerrilla force of between 500 and 600, and plans call for "infiltrating" the mountainous region where Castro operated before coming into power in 1959. These JURE troops are being trained and equipped in Venezuela, Mexico and Puerto Rico.

Ray, now a $10,000-a-year employee of the Puerto Rican government, was once minister of public works in the Castro regime and is among the most controversial of the Cuban exile leaders. At the time of the Bay of Pigs invasion, crucial details of the ill-fated operation were withheld from him.

One Naval Intelligence report credits Ray with aiming at supplanting Castro with a coalition government that would include Communists—"a Castro-type regime without Castro."

The Junta Revolucionaria Cubana has been getting some U. S. financial aid. This has been provided indirectly by the Central Intelligence Agency in payments to a "cut-out" organization; that is, a group handling the legal and other affairs of JURE.

On the Fence — President Johnson is taking a wary wait-and-see attitude toward the JURE undertaking.

He is doing this on the advice of Assistant Secretary of State Thomas Mann, his principal expert on Latin America. Mann reportedly has reservations regarding both Ray and the contemplated guerrilla underground plan.

Other top administration officials are split down the middle of this issue.

Attorney General Robert Kennedy, a member of the little-known Counter-Insurgency Committee, and Deputy Defense Secretary Cyrus Vance favor supporting the JURE project. Secretary Rusk and the State Department's Policy Planning Council are opposed.

They contend that even covert backing of a move to overthrow Castro would lead to Russian intervention.

Why Goldwater Balked — Strong misgivings about the administration's policy on Cuba are one of the reasons Senator Barry Goldwater shied away from the President's offer to brief Republican presidential candidates on foreign affairs.

The Arizonaan is telling colleagues he "expects the administration to make some kind of move on Cuba before election, and I don't propose to be bound by it."

One of Goldwater's close aides expressed it even more bluntly: "The Senator smells a rat, but hasn't been able to put his finger on it yet." The assistant pointed out that, by declining the offer, Goldwater would be completely free to assail the administration "ahead of any developments in Cuba, South Vietnam or anywhere else a crisis arises — and they are certain to explode."

Senatorial Courtesy — There are moments during the prolonged Senate debate over the civil rights bill when tempers, long held in check, get frayed, and exchanges, while nominally polite, are acrid and sulphurous.

An example is the following jolly caustic encounter between Senator Samuel Ervin, D-N. C., leading opponent of the legislation, and Senator Joseph Clark, D-Pa., leading advocate:

Ervin: "Does not the Senator feel that perhaps some senators, particularly proponents of the bill, are reluctant to come to the Senate and hear those of us who oppose the bill express the truth in connection with the bill, for fear that receiving the truth might cause them to change their minds?"

Clark: "Senatorial courtesy prevents me from making a candid answer to the Senator's question."

Ervin: "If I could obtain unanimous consent to suspend Rule XIX, would the Senator answer my question?"

Clark: "I should be strongly tempted to do so, but I would not feel that for purpose."

Ervin: "Will the Senator permit me to observe that I believe a boycott is at least as reprehensible as a filibuster, and in no sense approaches the dignity or sanctity of an educational debate?"

Clark: "The Senator is correct. I believe a boycott is at least as reprehensible as a filibuster, and in no sense approaches the dignity or sanctity of an educational debate."

Severe throat infection and tonsillitis harbor the streptococcus. Since antibiotics so readily destroy this bacteria, early treatment by a physician will almost always interrupt the progress of infection.

Can Damage — Repeated attacks of rheumatic fever can damage the delicate heart valves and the heart muscle itself. This damage is the cause of rheumatic heart disease.

Doctors do not believe that heredity is an important factor in rheumatic fever or in rheumatic heart disease.

Prevention is the keyword in the interruption of the cycle of neglected sore throats and bouts of rheumatic fever.

Prevention Stressed — Emphasis on prevention is imperative if rheumatic fever and its complication, rheumatic heart disease, are to continue to be gratifyingly reduced in frequency.

It must be emphasized for assurance that not every sore throat in a child should be regarded fearfully as the forerunner of trouble.

Care, not fear, is the essence of preventive medicine.

It's In The Past

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
DEAR ABBY: What do you do when you finally find out that what you had suspected deep down in your heart was true? My sister-in-law telephoned the other day to inform me that my husband had an affair about a year ago with a supposedly good friend of mine. She said she and her husband had known about it all along. Suddenly, a lot of things began to fit into place, such as cancelled checks made out to strange places, and several unexplained late evenings. Each time I confront my husband with the accusation, he denies it. I would gladly give him the benefit of the doubt, but there is no doubt. I can't raise four children alone. Do I just forgive and forget?

HEARTBROKEN
DEAR HEARTBROKEN: Yes. Obviously your husband wants to forget, too, but when you try to sweat a confession out of him, he can't forgive. Truly forgive. Only then will you be able to forget.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are both in our mid-40's. We are neat dressers, and everyone compliments us on how "young" we look. Whenever we go out, my husband spots a "friend" at another table and up he jumps, leaving me to sit alone anywhere from 15 minutes to half an hour. When I complain he gets mad and says he likes to talk to his friends. What's bugging him anyway? This has been going on for years.

DEAR LEFT: If your table-hopping husband is running for office, grin and bear it. But if he's just a friendly-type guy who likes to talk to his "friends," tell him that you are his best friend and you don't go out to sit alone.

DEAR ABBY: When I was 12 and my brother was 10, our father died. Our mother married again, and she stayed married to this man until she died. At the time of her death neither my brother nor I could afford to buy her a headstone. Now we have the money and want to buy her one, but here is the problem: We want our mother's FIRST HUSBAND'S name on the headstone instead of her second husband's. After she died, we never saw our stepfather again. Our family did not care especially for my mother's first husband (our real father) or her second husband, so they want us to put her MAIDEN name on the headstone. Since my brother and I are paying for it, we think we should be able to put what we want on it. What is your opinion?

DEAR ABBY: What do you do when you finally find out that what you had suspected deep down in your heart was true? My sister-in-law telephoned the other day to inform me that my husband had an affair about a year ago with a supposedly good friend of mine. She said she and her husband had known about it all along. Suddenly, a lot of things began to fit into place, such as cancelled checks made out to strange places, and several unexplained late evenings. Each time I confront my husband with the accusation, he denies it. I would gladly give him the benefit of the doubt, but there is no doubt. I can't raise four children alone. County Putting Pressure On Airport Authority

SNYDERSVILLE — Stuart Pipher showed the county commissioners' determination to bring about a working Pocono Mountains Airport yesterday at a meeting of county officials at Pleasant Valley Manor.

Commissioner Pipher said, "The time has come when the spotlight will be put on members of the airport authority. Either they are going to act, or . . . He let the sentence trail off.

The commissioners have been pushing the airport authority, trying to bring about erection of hangars and facilities at the Mt. Pocono air field so that a competent operator could take over operation.

Pipher and commissioners John Price and Stanley Rader, neither of which were present at yesterday's meeting, have repeatedly said that they want to see action, and soon, for the $15,000 a year they have agreed to allocate for the airport.

Price was in Harrisburg at a meeting and chairman Rader is ill.

"Tuesday's meeting at the Casino Building in Mt. Pocono should be one of the most important in the airport's history," he said. He did not elaborate further, but it is assumed that a definite plan of building will be laid out at the meeting.

Pipher also mentioned that he discussed the Tocks Island Area with Arizona congressman Morris K. Udall, who "gave his blessings" to the project.

Pipher said he was surprised when he found out that Liquid Fuel Tax reimbursement to the counties in the state is based on a 1931 law — and that there has been no amendment. He said, "Things have changed quite a bit since 1931 concerning roads and highways."

"Judge Davis has said that he would like to include the probation office under a new accounting system we are setting up for the commissioners' office," Pipher said.

"Also, bids are out for 840 feet of fence for the proposed park on Third St. in Stroudsburg."

"The commissioners have decided that we want John Mills, chairman of the county planning commission, to meet next month at the meeting here. Since the commission will probably have to appoint a planning consultant soon, we would like to hear from them.

"There is some vagueness over the provisions of the new Child Welfare Act and its application to county health and welfare organizations."

"The commissioners are going to Harrisburg to meet with officials of the welfare department to determine what is required of us."

Over-All Plan

"We want an over-all mental health and welfare plan before 1968, so that we can submit a budget and have things arranged the way we need them, not the way the state will force us to arrange them if we don't act," Pipher said.

"We are going to store the voting machines in the surplus food building to get them out of the courthouse halls, and you'll probably see about 56 new lights in the first floor of the courthouse within a short time."

"The Tuberculosis Society and Veterans' Administration offices will be moved and their current offices will be torn down. This will make a larger parking lot all along the east side of the courthouse — something that is needed."

"We will be purchasing another set of tools for voting machines — we only have one now — and probably another voting machine to guard against mechanical failure emergencies."

Fontanella Margin Increased To 11

STROUDSBURG — Corrected, but still unofficial returns from light voting in Tuesday's primary election showed that Mary E. Fontanella, of Cresco, has an 11-vote margin over Parke Unangst, of Shawnee, in their race for Monroe County's seat on the Republican State Committee.

With 124 military and civilian absentee ballots still to be counted the corrected totals show Fontanella was favored by 1,511 county voters and Unangst by 1,500. The GOP has 75 ballots out and the Democrats, 49.

While neither the Democratic nor Republican county chairmen acknowledged the endorsement of any local candidate, it was reported the Young Republican Club threw its support behind Unangst.

Unangst captured the vote in both Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg and Fontanella picked up her strength in the county's 21 outlying districts.

One of the big surprises in the primary was that party-endorsed State Supreme Court Justice Michael Musmanno captured only one county district in his race for the Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate against Genevieve Blatt.

In Water Gap
Miss Blatt polled 2,658 votes in the county, while Musmanno was limited to 761. Delaware Water Gap was the only election district to throw its support to Musmanno. The third man in the contest was David Roberts, Allegheny prothonotary, who captured 506 county votes.

In the GOP senatorial race the incumbent Hugh Scott was a 13-1 winner over his primary opposition, W. Henry McFarland, a Philadelphia publisher. Scott polled 2,948 votes to lead the GOP county ticket. McFarland picked up 227.

John Davis, Mt. Pocono oil dealer, was the Republican choice to go against the Democratic incumbent Van D. Yetter, when Yetter seeks his sixth term in the state assembly in November's general election. Yetter ran unopposed and captured 3,456 votes.

Mild Surprise
Davis beat back a bid for the nomination by Jack Ferber of East Stroudsburg, by a 1,992 to 1,139 count. The size of the plurality was a mild surprise. Both waged calm campaigns and were considered about equal on election day.

In another mild surprise Stroudsburg Atty. J. Joseph McCluskey eked out a slim 104-vote victory over Mrs. Grace Kunkle Palmer, of East Stroudsburg, in a bid for Democratic state committee.

Both had waged vigorous campaigns and Palmer had the backing of Stuart Pipher, Monroe County commissioner. McCluskey had been unsuccessful in an earlier bid to grab the Democratic nomination for district attorney.

The Democratic party got a new county chairman in the primary when James Cadue, of Tobyhanna, running unopposed, was elected to fill the spot formerly held by W. C. G. (Bud) Peterson, of Stroudsburg, who did not seek reelection. Cadue's vote totaled 2,628.

Rooney Grabs Votes
Congressman Fred B. Rooney rode roughshod over two opponents in his bid for the Democratic nod for congress. The freshman representative polled 3,298 to the Rev. Dr. George Cretz's 427 and John Stephen's 203.

Rooney had campaigned in the county on the fact that he had been successful in sending over $1 million in federal aid to the county.

Leo McCormick, of Pike County, running unopposed for the GOP nomination for Congress from the 15th District, will face Rooney in the general election.

With 2,412 votes McCormick ran behind the total of 3,175 GOP votes cast in the county.

Landowners, Beers Plan Price Talks

SNYDERSVILLE — King Beers, executive director of the county's redevelopment authority, told the monthly meeting of county officials at Pleasant Valley Manor yesterday that he expects to discuss prices with S. Courtland St. landowners during May.

He said that second acquisition appraisals were completed. "It's anticipated that within two weeks we can talk prices with the Acme Market and the post office and draw up the final disposition documents," Beers said.

Title services have started and will be completed by the end of May, and he noted that the authority is preparing an informational brochure on FIA loans for residents of two urban renewal projects.

Submits Plan
He said that the authority has submitted a workable plan to the federal government covering zoning codes and planning activities.

A public hearing will be held May 4 at 7 p.m. in the East Stroudsburg Joint High School on the activities of the renewal projects. It is sponsored by the county commissioners and the East Stroudsburg borough council, according to Beers.

He added that the redevelopment authority has received a list of 33 potential commercial developers for the Lincoln Ave. project from the Pennsylvania Power and Light Co. The planning commission is drafting material which will try to entice some of the industries to the area.

Alton J. Jones of the authority said that he had contacted everyone except one person in the S. Courtland St. project and he expects little trouble in relocation. He added that he has lists of houses that are available but that he is a "little shy" on rentals.

63 Writs Served By Sheriff

SNYDERSVILLE — Speaking at the monthly meeting of county officials, sheriff Edward Metzgar told those meeting at Pleasant Valley Manor yesterday that 63 original writs were served during March, compared with 43 during February.

He said nine executions were served and returned, compared with six during February. The sheriff transported one person to Allentown State Hospital while he transported three during February.

There were 33 commitments and 43 released during the month compared to 19 commitments and 23 released during February. Currently there are 13 prisoners in the jail.

A total of 1,484 meals were served at the jail at a cost of 22 cents per meal compared to 1,878 meals at 19 cents a meal during February. The cost of provisions during March came to $420.13 compared to $365.61 during February.

Total medical expenditures for the month came to $20, compared with $96 for February. The sheriff's office turned in $896.05 to the county during March compared with $702.56 during February.

Move Capital?

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — An opposition senator has authorized a bill supporting an aspiration of President Arturo Illia's government: that the Argentine capital be moved from Buenos Aires, population 6.5 million, inland to Cordoba, population 600,000. Sen. Celestino Gelsi said the move would help shake the country out of its economic lethargy.

Two Not Received By County

14 Assessment Books Completed

SNYDERSVILLE — C. A. Nauman, chief assessor, noted yesterday that 14 of 29 occupational assessment books have been completed by local assessors.

He spoke at the monthly meeting of county officials at Pleasant Valley Manor.

He added that two occupational assessment books have not yet been received. One is from Harold Smith of East Stroudsburg's fifth ward, the other from Davis Drake of Stroudsburg's third ward.

Nauman said that this office has given the county $157 from the sale of maps during the preceding month.

"Approximately 450 letters were written to manufacturers, store owners, and other businesses for wage classification," he said. "Returns have been very good. A summary of reports will be made and new occupational assessment rates will be established in the near future." He said that a list of all camps in the county has been prepared and that exempt camps are being rechecked. Ten have been completed and the remainder will be finished this week, he said.

Nauman said that 300 properties were reviewed to satisfy one property owner's assessment. Nauman said that the limit for valid comparison of properties should be about five or six properties.

He said 24 individual appeals were checked during the month and that three were adjusted, one is still in review, and the rest were either denied or withdrawn.

He added that 487 property owners listed and given to the Army Corps of Engineers for the Tocks Island Dam Project.

Official Vote Count May 11

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County commissioners will start the official vote count for Tuesday's primary election Friday, May 11, at 1 p.m. in the commissioners' office.

The tabulating of 47 military and 77 civilian absentee ballots will be held Friday, May 8, at 11 a.m. in commissioner's office.

School Dropouts Get 2nd Chance

By DAVE LEHERR
Associated Press Writer
HARRISBURG (AP) — High school dropouts are getting a second chance in Pennsylvania. No longer must qualified men and women pass up promotions and job opportunities because they lack a high school diploma. Through the state's General Educational Development testing program, equivalent diplomas can be earned in three days. But it's not as easy as it may seem.

"The GED program was devised for legitimately interested dropouts, not as an 'escape' for more people to quit school," says Kenneth Reher, coordinator of the Department of Public Instruction's Division of Testing. Basically, the GED tests are divided into five categories covering correctness and effectiveness of expression, social studies, natural sciences, literary materials and general mathematics.

"Twenty-five per cent of the seniors who do graduate from high school would flunk these tests under our scoring system, so it's no push-over," says Reher. But the success of the program speaks for itself. Between last Aug. 15 when the program was first initiated and March 15, a total of 2,075 high school diplomas were issued through GED, with 75 per cent of the candidates passing. The average age of those taking the tests was 25 to 30.

"One of the best examples cited by Reher was the case of a middle-aged man offered the opportunity of promotion with a national airline.

"The man jumped at the chance, only to find he needed a high school diploma which he did not have," Reher recounts. "He called us on a Tuesday and we approved him for the tests immediately. He took the exams Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, passed them with flying colors, received his diploma Saturday and was on his way to California Sunday to start the training course for his new post."

The GED program is not a training program or an effort to reduce the ever-mounting dropout rate. Rather it is a means of removing barriers in the way of men and women unfortunate enough not to have been able to finish their schooling.

"It's up to the person whether he or she passes the test," says Reher. "We don't provide the study courses, just the tests. Our exams cover the basic needs of education, such as reading, grammar and speech. They don't have to go back to school. But if they want to they can."

Dropouts continue to be a major problem plaguing both Pennsylvania and the nation. A recent survey indicates that one of every three youths in high school today will quit before graduation. At this rate, total dropouts between 1960 and 1970 could go as high as 7.5 million.

This coupled with estimates that only five per cent of the working force will be engaged in unskilled labor in the next decade, paints a grim picture for the future.

"The GED program is aimed at remedying the overwhelming problem.

20 Centers
Twenty testing centers have been set up across the state, operating virtually on a daily basis.

Prior to Aug. 15, tests were administered only three times a year and on a single subject basis.

The new testing program is expected to provide better service to persons who want a high school diploma. Tests also are being made available to the state's correctional and health institutions twice a year.

"If you are in the upper half of your class in the GED tests, you have a good chance of going on to college," Reher says. "A majority of Pennsylvania's colleges have indicated they will accept GED tests as having met the requirements of high school."

$5 Cost
Cost of the GED test is $5 except at Waynesburg State College and Philadelphia where the fee is $10. Candidates failing the GED tests the first time, must wait one year before taking a re-test, unless they can produce written evidence that they have corrected the deficiency through schooling or private tutoring. The program also issues 8th, 10th and 11th grade certificates for those falling short of the

Scott Asks Support Of Both Parties

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., appealed Wednesday for Democratic and Independent votes in November regardless of the outcome of the Pennsylvania primary to select his opponent.

In a statement issued through his Washington office, Scott thanked Republicans who voted for him in Tuesday's election and said his showing was not only personally gratifying but also demonstrated the "vitality and unity" of the GOP.

He said the close race for the Democratic nomination between state Supreme Court Justice Michael A. Musmanno and Miss Genevieve Blatt, state secretary of internal affairs, probably will bring a demand for a recount no matter who appears the winner.

Vote Breakdown In Demo Race

Here are the unofficial county-by-county returns in the primary in which party-backed Justice Michael Musmanno was opposed by Genevieve Blatt, secretary of internal affairs. Each sought the Democratic nomination to oppose Sen. Hugh Scott in the November election.

$1 Million Fire Rages

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — A fire spread by wind and helped along by explosions destroyed a large building and damaged nearby structures in the Erie business section early Wednesday, causing damage estimated at more than $1 million.

Firemen said the blaze was started by an explosion of undetermined origin in a two-story brick building housing the Yellow Cab Co. and a furniture store.

Flames spread to an ambulance garage, a service station and three houses containing business places, including a photo studio and a real estate office.

Simple Test But Results Surprising

Editor's note: The Daily Record composed the following examination for its readers. It is not considered hard, but it isn't easy either.

STROUDSBURG — Take this simple test and you may surprise yourself.

It's designed to give a small indication of your general knowledge. You may find out that you can hold your own with more than most people on many subjects.

Tests have shown that a college diploma may fit a person for a specific job, but that they often have little effect on the sum of general knowledge.

Try yourself on these 40 names. If you get between 15 and 20 right, you're average. Between 20 and 25, you're on par with someone in college. Over 30, you're a wide reader.

— keep it up. Just tell what field each man was successful in.

Gronouski will begin to take effect in Newfoundland and South Sterling and other cities on May 4, according to Postmasters C. L. Beeseker, Newfoundland, and Mrs. Estella Christman, South Sterling.

Although parcel post deliveries, window service and other miscellaneous services will be changed in some offices, especially in the larger ones, the only change effective in these two communities will be money order service. None will be issued on Saturday, either domestic or international.

In South Sterling, regular Star Route delivery will continue as usual on Saturday, Mrs. Christman noted.

Barrett Club Hears Randolph

Mountainhome — Steps and procedures for a bill to be passed in Congress and other phases of the Congress were explained by Leonard Randolph, guest speaker, at the "Candidate's Night" of the Barrett Democratic Women's Club, Friday.

Randolph, executive aide to Congressman Fred B. Rooney, spoke on the Civil Rights Bill now being debated in the Senate. Another subject discussed was President Johnson's war on poverty. He said many people did not understand the program wasn't a give-away one, but one to get people re-trained in different jobs helping all, not just the poverty stricken. He referred to the men out of work due to the coal mines closing, as well as the coming automation to the railroads, as just two areas where re-training was necessary.

Another bill Randolph spoke on was the food stamp bill which will benefit the poverty program also. It will put the stamps where they should be — in the grocery's and super-markets and those using them will be able to get better food for their tables. This is not a give-away program either, according to Randolph.

He also discussed the hearings being held now on the Bible reading and prayer decision handed down by the Supreme Court. He said Congressman Rooney gave testimony on Friday in behalf of the bill and a copy of his testimony would appear in The Daily Record for those interested in the discussions.

A bill, considered a minor one, but of importance to this area, is the one pertaining to the Volunteer Fire Companies, and referred to as bill HR10001. Randolph said, should be coming up for hearings in three to four weeks. He said the Congressman had been assured by Chairman Mills a hearing would be held on the bill just as soon as the medicare hearings are concluded.

Randolph said this bill would lighten the burdens on the Vol. Fire Co.'s as far as taxes, audits, etc. are concerned.

Due to the many programs to be discussed over the past few years, another change has come to the Congress. It is now in session for most of the year instead of from January thru April as it had once been.

A question and answer period followed.

Candidates introduced at the meeting were: Aubrey Siglin, committeewoman; Jane Brush, committeewoman; James Cadue, county chairman; Grace Palmer, state committeewoman; Mrs. Joseph McCluskey, representing Joseph McCluskey, state committeewoman; and Van D. Yetter, Representative to the General Assembly.

Mrs. George Cretz, who had arrived after the introduction of candidates was introduced and invited to speak. He gave his reasons for seeking office in the Congress.

Mrs. Jane Brush, president, announced a pancake day is planned for May 17. The meeting adjourned to a social hour and refreshments were served by Mrs. Eleanor Mikes, Mrs. Beulah Siglin and Mrs. Mae Bennett.

Summer Squash Considered Ideal Vegetable

SUMMER SQUASH — Here's one vegetable many gardeners have yet to discover. When they discover how delicious squash can be prepared, they admit that summer squash is a top-notch vegetable.

You can grow them almost anytime in summer or early fall. Most varieties will mature in from 50 to 60 days, so plant accordingly.

We've tried nearly all squash and still find Zucchini hybrid is one of the finest for the home garden. Fruit is dark green (6" to 8") and like any squash are best picked when no longer than 8 to 10".

Caserta is an early (50 days) and prolific type, borne on bush-like plants. Hybrid Cocozelle is a fine type, boiled or fried.

Regardless of which summer squash you grow, keep in mind that yield is reduced if you allow fruit to grow large on the vine. Pick fruit when small. If beetles become a problem, spray or dust with malathion, Sevin or methoxychlor.

Growing good squash is one thing, and cooking it is another. Send me self-addressed, stamped envelope and ask for a copy of my free bulletin, HOW TO GROW AND COOK SUMMER SQUASH.

My guide has good tips on culture, varieties, problems and most important, it contains some fine Italian-style recipes for cooking this "forgotten" vegetable.

TULIPS AND SQUIRRELS — Several have written to tell us how disappointed they've been with their tulips this year. Something cut the leaves off and ate holes in the bulbs.

It is moles, they ask? No, moles do not eat tulips or any vegetation. Over 95 per cent of their diet consists of grubs and insects in the soil.

The real villain is the squirrel, chipmunk or rabbit. Rabbits and squirrels eat the blooms and stalks. Alice and chipmunks will eat the bulbs. Keeping these rodents away is a real problem. Cats and dogs do a lot to scare them away.

Various chemicals have been used, but with little success. If any one has a good cure for rabbits, squirrels and chipmunks, please write and tell me.

THE BORER WAR — Killing borers in lilacs, locust and other trees is a tough job, especially if the borer is well established inside the trunk. Some folks have good luck stabbing the borer with a hot wire thrust into the tunnel, but you cannot count on this since the tunnels are often too serpentine.

A more effective method consists of squeezing a tube of paste into an opening. This kills the borer by contact or by fumes released from the paste. Most garden stores carry the borer killer with a spout attached.

STARTING ROSES — Starting roses under glass jars or gallon jugs (with bottom removed) is a common garden practice. However, one of our readers tells us she has good luck starting roses another way. She takes a wooden box, fills it with soil and places it near her rose cane.

The cane is bent so that it roots where it was buried, rests on the soil. Then she adds more soil so that a portion of the cane is completely covered. A brick is placed over the buried part and that's all there is to it.

The cane develops a set of clipper, severs the cane below the roots and sets the new plant in the garden. The same can be done without using a box, merely bending the cane over so that it touches the ground.

It is pegged down and allowed to root. This method of propagation is known as layering.

Incidentally, if you're not sure about any particular rose for your garden then you should study the 1961 Guide for Buying Roses, prepared by the American Rose Society.

This guide gives national ratings from rose growers. Has information on height, color, fragrance.

If you're going to buy roses in containers or bare root, better study the guide first, because the one you select might be of questionable value for your garden. Just send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope for your copy.

ORNAMENTAL BASIL — This purple-bronze basil came out in 1962, but for some reason it hasn't caught the public's eye. The deep purple-bronze leaves makes the plant ideal for accents and borders, and the novelty makes an ideal cooking herb as well. A few leaves in vinegar makes a beautiful vinegar for seasoning. Basil is easy to grow in the garden or in a kitchen, so why not get a packet of seeds and grow the variety known as Dark Opal?

EDGING EVERGREENS — The edge you put around your foundation planting has the same effect the necktie has for a well-dressed man. By using your garden hose as a guide line, make a pattern, mark it with a spade, then dig a couple inches of soil all the way across the border.

Place a couple inches of peatmoss in the edged border and see how it accents your planting.

If you have sawdust, place this on the soil first (add one cup nitrate of soda to each bush) used then top it with peatmoss. If you object to the cheap look of sawdust.

This mulch keeps soil moist, roots cool, and weeds down, and at the same time it makes the planting look a lot better.

ROSE SPRAY — Here's another good rose spray to try: 1 Tbs. Dithane (or 2 Tbs. Parazote); 1 Tbs. Karathane; 2 of 50 per cent DDT (or 3 Tbs. of 50 per cent methoxychlor) and 2 Tbs. of 25 per cent malathion to a gallon of water. Bust or spray every week!

Cooperation — MEXICO CITY (AP)—Mexico and France will exchange agricultural technicians, reports the minister for agriculture, Julian Rodriguez Arfame. He said initially France would send experts in tropical agriculture, while Mexico will send abroad cereals specialists.

Grenadiers To Parade In NYC

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Keystone Grenadiers will leave to parade for the VFW Loyalty Day Parade on 5th Ave., New York City, Saturday from the East Stroudsburg American Legion at 8:30 a.m.

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP)—A sugar factory, a cigarette factory and a hydroelectric project built in Nepal with Soviet aid will be put into operation before the end of 1961, a Soviet spokesman announced.

Question Box

QUESTION OF THE WEEK — F. G. of Stroudsburg: "Last year we had the start of a circle of toad stools on our lawn. The same thing's happened again now. We've got a whole circle of toad stools and don't know what to do."

Most gardeners are content to pick the toad stools and burn them, although this is far from being a cure. If you're a fussy lawn owner and want to get rid of the "fairy rings" or circles, it can be done.

Your soil contains a mushroom type fungus which grows thickly, deeply and in a circle. It can spoil the appearance of the lawn though it doesn't harm the grass.

If you're willing to work, here's what you do: (1) Strip off the turf a foot each side of the affected area and discard it. (2) Break up the soil finely to a depth of 10 inches; (3) Mix up 3 pints of formalin (40% formaldehyde) with 5 gallons of water. This will treat 5 sq. yds. of turf. (4) Sprinkle half the solution on, then stir the soil, and add the remainder; (5) Cover treated areas with plastic sheeting, tape paper for 7 to 10 days, sealing down the edges.

When cover is removed, allow the fumes to dissipate. Then reseed the area again, keep it watered and you should have a green spot where the mushroom rooms once thrived.

G. T. of Bangor: "Our daffodils came up fine this spring, but did not flower. Some started to, but the buds turned brown and dried up. Can these bulbs be saved and planted again this fall?"

Sounds as if your daffs have botrytis blight, the same villain which causes tulips to blast, and makes peony buds or blooms to fizzle. This is a gray mold fungus, and it's even more prevalent when manure is used on these plants.

Bulbs can be saved. When you dig them this fall, treat them in a solution of Captan (1 lbs. to a gallon of water). Also, keep the new growth sprayed or dusted, especially the young buds. Overcrowding may be another cause. After leaves turn yellow, divide bulbs and plant immediately.

G. C. of Wind Gap: "I have a tropical fish tank no longer used for fish. Would it make a good greenhouse for starting seeds and cuttings?"

Yes, just make sure that you provide ventilation. A movable glass top will serve. A half and half mixture of sand and peat is suitable for starting all seeds. Avoid overwatering as soil may sour. You should be able to root roses, evergreen cuttings, and many other ornamentals. The tank would also make a fine terrarium.

Archie's Chicken

SAN DIEGO, Calif.—The sign announced the opening of the Archie Moore Restaurant and the proprietor dry washed his hands, envisioning crowds of the general dimension of the New York World's Fair.

It happens inevitably that Greeks and prize fighters gravitate to the restaurant business, though Archie points out this is not his maiden voyage in that dodge.

With a forward look, he opened Archie Moore's Chicken Shack in San Diego in 1941, at which time he saw his days as a boxer drawing to a close.

Of course, he didn't retire until 22 years later, and, in fact, isn't certain he has retired yet, but it always has been Archie's unwavering view that he was placed on this earth primarily as a restaurateur.

"I don't mind saying that I am America's foremost authority on fried chicken and the most dedicated patron of that particular nourishment," he says.

Fried chicken is the all-purpose food. You can eat it hot or cold. You can wrap it in a napkin and take it with you. You can stuff it in your pocket. You can have it as a meal or as a snack. You can feel secure that it is digestible at any hour.

In the early days of the chicken shack, Archie discovered a striking paucity of customers, which can be distressing to one in the restaurant business.

When receipts dropped to $7 a night, he decided that remedial measures were needed. At the conclusion of his fights in the San Diego Coliseum, he would grab the ring microphone and announce to the crowd:

"Ladies and gentlemen, it is now time to repair to Archie Moore's Chicken Shack on E Street where I personally will fry you traditional chicken, golden brown and juicy within."

The operation was busy. "I hurried to the restaurant," recalls Archie, "greeted people at the door, seated them and then rushed into the kitchen to put the chicken on the fire."

"When I put in the biscuits, I took off my apron and came out to chat with the customers. I had eight minutes—the time it took the biscuits to bake. I then rushed back into the kitchen, put on my apron again and finished the cooking."

His position in the new establishment, thankfully, will be less active.

"I will concentrate mostly on the role of mine host," he says, "and I will regale the patrons with stories of my wide travels and experiences. I also will be featuring a thing called a 30-day businessman's lunch."

"How will this differ from the garden variety businessman's lunch?" he was asked.

"Mainly, each businessman will eat 30 lunches. And if, at the end of that time, he doesn't look better and weigh less, he may return for 10 free meals."

"If the guy doesn't like the 30 meals," we asked Archie, "why would he want to expose himself to 40?"

"I fought Harold Johnson five times," he answered. "And I didn't really feel I got to know him until the fifth."

Jolly, we asked Archie how much he weighed, having been a matter of imminent concern for some 25 years.

"Something over two," he replied evasively.

"How much over two?"

"Not enough so that I couldn't get down to meet Ray Robinson. We talked for years about a fight. It's reached the stage of now or never."

Vanity on the part of both, of course, prevented them from getting together in what could have produced a colossal gate. Neither would allow the other an even split, each feeling that he was the principal attraction.

"How would you divide with Robinson today?" Moore was asked.

"Probably 70-30," he answered. "But I'm open to negotiation."

Archie returned recently from Jamaica where he had been booked to referee the world's junior welterweight championship match between Eddie Perkins and Bunny Grant.

"When I arrived," says Moore, "I was met at the plane by the Jamaica Board of Boxing Control. They were very nice gentlemen who told me politely that I had been removed as referee."

Archie couldn't understand it, because all he had done earlier was answer reporters' questions.

"One asked me what I thought of the fight," says Moore. "and I remarked that I thought Perkins would be too much for Grant."

For this, Archie unaccountably was replaced.

"The funny thing is," says Moore, "I was right. Perkins won a decision."

Nicklaus, Palmer Head Golf Field

Associated Press Sports Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Jack Nicklaus, who won the event the first time he tried it a year ago, and Arnold Palmer, who played it seven times before he hit the jackpot, dominated a select field in the Tournament of Champions.

The 12th annual spring golf classic of casho-land begins its 72-hole whirl Thursday, with 20 professionals competing for the $65,000 purse.

Nicklaus, whose 15-under par 273 won the 963 tournament by five strokes, and Palmer, fresh and understandingly reinvigorated by his recent triumph in the famed Masters, his fourth, are well aware of the opposition and the odds of winning the $12,000 top money.

Arrayed against them in a cast of big-name players and distinct longshots were such challengers as United States Open Champion Julius Boros, British Open champion Bob Charles, South Africa's Gary Player and gallery favorite "Champagne Tony" Lema.

"Te-off time is 12 noon. Pacific Daylight Time, for the first three rounds, with an earlier start Sunday for the benefit of NBC television cameras."

The setting is the 7,000-yard Desert Inn Country Club, where last year Nicklaus blasted out a 61, eight strokes under par 36-36-72, and was never really threatened from there on.

Palmer, after six finishes with his best position a tie for fifth, won the tournament in 1962.

Bangor's Lobb Wins Brite Star

BANGOR — A brilliant relief performance by Bangor High School's Larry Lobb against East Stroudsburg last Friday has earned the 16-year-old junior the Brite Star of the Week, athletic award in the Pocono-Slate Belt area.

The husky southpaw (he's five-foot, 10 inches and weighs 174) came on in relief with two outs in the first inning against the Cavaliers at the Eastburg Playground and allowed no runs, yielded but one hit (a bunt single), issued four walks and struck out 13 batters.

The game ended in a 3-3 tie after eight innings of play.

Lefty Lobb has more than a lot of diamond experience behind him and he is hopeful the future holds a place for him in the sport.

Baseball Career

Although undecided about entering college, he does admit pursuing baseball for a career.

Larry won varsity baseball letters at Bangor in both his freshman and sophomore years. He also has pitched in the Bangor Little League, Bangor Babe Ruth League and for the Roseto American Legion club last summer.

Baseball is Larry's only sport and hobby. "I just like baseball," he says.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Melbourne Lobb.

$132,000 Track Winner Unknown

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP)—The bettor who won $132,232.80 in the Roosevelt Raceway twin double Tuesday night was a man. It was determined Wednesday. The holder of the one winning ticket has not appeared to claim the money.

Previously it was believed that the bettor was a woman but a check of the mutual machines in the mezzanine at this suburban trotting plant showed that the ticket was purchased from George Hawkins, a seller in his first year at Roosevelt.

Hawkins, an employee of an export-import firm in New York City during the day, recalled selling the ticket because the purchaser bought 18 tickets for $10 each, paying for the tickets with two $100 bills and getting $20 in change.

Remembers Bettor
"I recall distinctly that the chap, who was about 35 and spoke and was dressed like a member of Princeton's class of 1935, combined the No. 5 horse in the seventh race with every horse in the sixth race at $10 each. Then he asked me to repeat it and when that was finished he bought extra $10 tickets on the 1-2 combinations.

"That made 18 tickets at $10. While I was punching out the tickets, the machine broke down and we had to have it repaired. During the wait, the bettor was as nervous as a cat."

When the No. 7 horse in the sixth race won and the No. 5 horse in the seventh race also triumphed, the man had two tickets still alive.

He turned them in and accepted five $2 tickets on the No. 1 horse in the eighth race, pairing them with the first five horses in the ninth race. He did the same with the No. 4 horse in the eighth.

Entire Pool
No. 1 won and the mystery bettor held one of the 29 tickets still alive. When Historic Value, No. 5 in the ninth race won, he won the entire pool.

Hawkins said the bettor appeared to be a novice at twin double betting, a system in which bettors pick the winners in the sixth and seventh races and then must turn in their winning tickets and chose the probable winners in the eighth and ninth races.

Around $70,000 of the money would go to Uncle Sam in federal income taxes.

If the money isn't claimed by next April 1, it goes to the state.

The husband, Philip Storer, is chairman of the drive, which is being sponsored by the Men's Club of the National Drug Company.

"Our club," Storer said yesterday, "is mostly for fellowship, but we strongly believe in supporting community projects, too."

Philip Storer

Storer is a purchasing agent at the Swiftwater firm, where he has been employed the past three years. Previously, he operated milk farms in the Pocono and near Boston.

An Army veteran of World War II, he served with the 218th Signal Combat Bn. in England, France and Germany. His unit was the first to enter Paris after its liberation.

Storer's wife is the former Mary Smith, of Boston. The couple has three daughters, Beverly, 14, Joanne, 12, and Cynthia, 10.

Quota 125 Pints
Quota for the May 6 drive is 125 pints. "So far," Storer said, "we have about 45 pledges. We're going to need lots of help to meet our goal."

Helping recruit donors is the Rev. Thomas Cenkner of the Swiftwater Methodist Church, and Mrs. Storer.

In addition to giving blood that day, Mrs. Storer will provide transportation for any donor requesting it in the Mt. Pocono - Swiftwater - Cresco - Mountainhome area. Her phone number is 839-7327.

Donors in the Stroudsburgs will receive this same service by calling local Red Cross headquarters, 421-0660.

The Bloodmobile will be at the Swiftwater Methodist Church from 10:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m.

'Goodies And Badies' Game Sweeping Area High Schools

By Jeff Cox
Daily Record Reporter
STROUDSBURG — There's a new game sweeping the high schools of Monroe County. As yet it's unnamed, but it could aptly be called "differences."

One person can play the game by himself, but it's more heated with two or more.

It goes like this:

There are two kinds of people in the world, as everyone knows. The first and most obvious distinction between people is the "goodies" and the "badies."

But there are many more subtle distinctions — most requiring acute observation.

Value judgments don't have to be made — unless you want to get into an argument.

For instance, there are "breakfast, lunch, and dinner" people, and there are "breakfast, dinner, and supper" people. If you're a "lunch and dinner" person, that doesn't mean you're any better than the "dinner and supper" person.

But people often maintain that it does set them apart. Just let a "supper" person try to tell a "dinner" person that he eats "supper" at 6 p.m., and the argument is likely to end up in a brawl.

The point of the game is that two or more people sit around and come up with these "differences." The differences must be of universal appeal, though. It doesn't count if you have two cats at home named "Prince" and "Pauper," and you say, "There are 'Prince' people and 'Pauper' people."

Some valid differences that have been bandied about in recent games are:

There are "Soda" people and there are "soft drink" people.

There are "venetian blind" people and there are "window-shade" people.

One of the most telling distinctions is a sub-categorization of the "windowshade" people; there are "plain windowshade drawing" people and there are "tatted shade-pull" people.

It's easily seen that "tatted shade-pull" people are also probably "antimacassar" people. This is in distinction to "slipcover" people.

There are people who call their grandmothers "gram-maw" and there are people who call them "nana."

People can often be validly categorized by the products they use.

There are "Borden's" people and there are "Sealed Air" people.

There are "white bread" people and there are "rye bread" people.

There are "pleated trouser" people and there are "straight front" people.

Pronunciation of words can often be the base for many "differences."

There are "HimalAY'a" people and there are "Himal'ya" people.

There are "Carib'bean" people and there are "CaribBE'an" people.

There are "New ORLeans" people and there are "New ORLEAns" people.

At first glance, the whole game seems to be an invitation to a fist fight, but as it is played, regionalism and sectionalism of the various parts of America become evident.

As a game, at least it's better than "chicken."

A second session of the Convention is planned for Saturday morning at 9:30 a.m. At this time the convention will elect its officers, receive reports and plan its program for 1965.

Present officers of the Convention are the Very Rev. John W. Walters, Secretary; Mr. Frank T. Green, Terman, Treasurer; and Mr. S. Keene Mitchell, Jr., Kingston, Chancellor.

THE TRUTH THAT HURTS COMMUNISM

Radio Free Europe reveals these shocking realities of life to its listeners behind the Iron Curtain. The Communist regimes of East Europe try to hide these facts by resorting to lies and deception. For years the Communists have promised that "the good life" is just around the corner. But it will only come, the Communists say, if the 80 million captive people in East Europe work harder and sacrifice more.

The economic successes of the United States and the free world are of course never mentioned by the Communist controlled press and radio. Nor is any mention made of the real cause of the misery of the captive people—Communism itself.

Radio Free Europe sets the record straight. It tells the captive people the truth... let's them know exactly what conditions are... where they stand in relation to the free world... dissolves the myth of Communism.

For over two decades the captive people of Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria have resisted the pressures of Communist indoctrination. Radio Free Europe helps them resist.

Radio Free Europe is a private non-profit American organization that depends on your financial support to continue its vital work. You can help Radio Free Europe tell the truth that hurts Communism! Remember, the Iron Curtain isn't soundproof—Radio Free Europe gets through.

Monroe Sportsmen Confer On Conservation Problems

STROUDSBURG — Monroe County Federation of Sportsmen Clubs pin-pointed various problems confronting the sportsman and conservationist at a recent meeting at the YMCA.

James Price, president of the Monroe County Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs said 14 of the initial 15 federation clubs attended the meeting. He said this was a very good showing, and it represents the interest of organized conservationists in the Monroe Federation.

A spokesman for the M.C.F.S.C. said a letter had been sent to Albert M. Day, executive director of the Pennsylvania Fish Commission requesting an answer to the question: "Is the Coates Paper Board and Box Company legally responsible for providing and maintaining an adequate and workable fishway at their dam?"

He added, that a letter had been sent to Cong. Fred B. Rooney asking his support of Land and Water Conservation Fund Bill (H.R. 3846) now under congressional consideration.

At the meeting William J. Rea, game committee chairman, pointed out certain weaknesses in game commission organization.

He added, that a letter had been sent to Cong. Fred B. Rooney asking his support of Land and Water Conservation Fund Bill (H.R. 3846) now under congressional consideration.

They were all asked the same question:

What's so special about Wonder Round Bread?

"I stopped buying those others the minute I found Wonder Round Bread. When I find a good thing, I stay with it. The shape is kind of fun, but it's really the flavor we like so well."

"I just think it's the best thing that's happened to bread in years. The round shape is perfect for sandwiches, and Wonder's quality and flavor are unsurpassed. Wonderful idea!"

"Isn't Wonder always better? I figured why fool around trying those others. I know from experience Wonder's a name I can trust. And Wonder Round Bread proved it. We just love it!"

"Why didn't the Wonder Bakers bring out Wonder Round Bread years ago? I first bought it as a novelty, but my family likes it better than any other kind of bread. So why buy others?"

Paintings At New Gallery At Rails Station Reviewed

By Sterling Strauser
"Seeing is believing." A group of energetic members of the Pocono Art Center have actually transformed the old Erie-Lackawanna Rail Road passenger station in East Stroudsburg into an art gallery.

On Saturday the newly painted walls of the waiting room were filled to overflowing with paintings comprising two one-man shows.

Doris Kenawell, a local artist, is showing approximately 40 oils, ranging in subject matter from more or less conventional still life to very imaginative flights into new worlds inspired by sea shells, tree bark, and rock formations.

The range of technique, quite understandably, is more restrained. Paint handling which is adequate for lemon lilies and interesting white patterns of table top lace in No. 3 seems limited in the inventive enlargement of "Amethyst" No. 22.

Seen across the room this painting resembles abstract expressionism because of its daring concept, but it is slightly disillusioning to discover that it is painted in conventional realistic technique usually associated with perceptual painting.

No. 27 shows Mrs. Kenawell's unique ability to use a natural object, in this case a "Tapestry cone shell," as a spring board from which to create one of her strange new worlds.

Again this is happily apparent in No. 28 which could be a study of a burned out planet, but which was inspired by an abalone shell, concave and convex.

Another successful shell composition, No. 29 may be the best of this series as the content and the paint handling are more nearly integrated.

As a painter Mrs. Kenawell may have her imagination in the stratosphere but she does not lose touch with reality, having no illusions about easy victories in the art world.

In discussing her progress during her three years as a student at the Pocono Art Center she summarizes, "I still have a long way to go." Her paintings and her attitude speak well for her teachers, indicating an admirable respect for originality and freedom of choice of direction.

Russell Pealer, an artist of Bethlehem, is showing about 30 water colors. Pealer's work is known to some collectors in this area through his shows at the Delaware Water Gap Gallery.

Most of his paintings are very pleasing, showing sensitivity and familiarity with his medium. There is a pleasant woodsy feeling in his landscapes and an interesting oriental flair in some of his flowers.

One of his best is No. 2 "Zinnias and Cockscomb," the yellows, greens, and purple being skillfully handled on a wet paper. "Autumn Landscape," No. 16 demonstrates an interesting use of line, while "Dawn Mists" is soft and tentative but full of mood.

In "Saucun in Autumn" Pealer handles the weeping willows beautifully, combining flowing wash with scratched line.

Most of his work is conservative but his willingness to experiment is shown by his use of fluorescent paint in No. 13 to show glowing fire in "Fire in Woods." The use of this novel medium seems acceptable here but would be undesirable in most of his paintings.

"Vision and Imagination" Prices are plainly marked on all paintings in contrast to the works exhibited by the weaver's guild. Orders are taken for these.

The guest register indicates lively attendance. On Saturday visitors coming the longest distance were Mr. and Mrs. James Lehman of Greene, N.Y. Lehman, a television announcer for Station WINT in Binghamton, was enthusiastic. "This project took vision and imagination," he said.

The current shows continue the balance of this week from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

Some anonymous devotees deserve special awards — in addition to the paintings and weaving several of the original stained glass windows in the station have been unveiled. These windows were sacrificed long ago to the house painter's brush during an early economy campaign.

It takes a real love of beauty to scrape one clean with a razor blade atop a tall step-ladder.

Yes, "Seeing is believing." Your reviewer hereby apologizes to the Art Center and to Ted Gurka, East Stroudsburg's cooperative freight agent, for saying, "It can't be done."

Playhouse To Open June 15

MOUNTAINHOME—Mrs. Rowena Stevens, producer-manager of the Pocono Playhouse, Mountainhome, has announced the opening of her 18th season, Monday night, June 15.

The Playhouse will remain open for 14 weeks closing Sept. 20. Mrs. Stevens will continue her policy of presenting quality star packages.

The season will be comprised of eight plays and three musicals, the latter to be produced by Mrs. Stevens, personally with all-star casts. The musicals will play Pocono Playhouse for two weeks each, then go on a tour of the summer circuit.

Eugene Stuckmann returns for his sixth season as production stage manager. This past winter he was stage manager for the Broadway production of "Man and Boy" starring Charles Boyer. Scene Designer, Jack Bates will also return with Philip Pasquini in his old stand at the front of the house.

Dixie Lee, long time press representative for the Pocono Playhouse, will retire this summer to take it easy in Florida. Frances Pole will take over the press chores. For the past two years, Miss Pole was press representative for Laurence Feldman's year round suburban theatre at Mineola, Long Island.

Prior to that, she served for many years as assistant director to John Huntington and press representative for the Spa Summer Theatre, Saratoga Springs, N.Y.

Mrs. Stevens will be in her New York office at 15 East 48th St. until she leaves for the Playhouse at Mountainhome on June 1.

Marriage Law Under Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court agreed this week to rule on the validity of Florida laws that prohibit Negro and white persons of the opposite sex from getting married or living together unmarried.

An appeal by Dewey McLaughlin, described as a Negro, and Connie Hoffman, a white woman, said Alabama, Arkansas, Louisiana, Nevada, North Dakota and Tennessee have similar laws.

The pair was arrested in Miami Beach in February 1962 and each was sentenced to 30 days in jail and $150 fine. A Florida welfare worker testified at their trial that the white woman said she had been living with McLaughlin as her common-law husband since 1961 and they never married.

Redevelopment Authority Opens Plans To Public

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Redevelopment Authority of Monroe County announced yesterday the public is invited to inspect an urban renewal plan and a relocation report covering the Courtland Street project in East Stroudsburg.

The data will be open for inspection in the authority's offices in the Finner Building, Crystal St., East Stroudsburg, according to King Beers, executive director.

The Monroe County commissioners and the Borough of East Stroudsburg will join the authority in sponsoring a public hearing covering the Courtland project Monday at 7 p.m. in the auditorium in East Stroudsburg Area High School.

The renewal plan indicates 17 families, three individual householders and two businesses will be displaced from the project area.

The project will cost an estimated $123,123 before the authority is ready to make the 4.5 acres available for commercial development.

The Avenue Markets and U.S. Post Office Dept. will build on the redeveloped land. Property acquisition will cost $245,273; survey and planning and project administration, $11,481; demolition and site clearance, $16,830, and site improvements, including street improvements, utility adjustments and supporting facilities, $13,519.

The relocation report is a 28-page study covering the details of relocating displaced households and businesses. The authority will maintain a field office near the project area to assist in the relocation.

Alton (Bucky) Jones, property management and relocation director, will assist Beers in handling the displaced persons.

The authority will solicit the cooperation of churches, home builders, civic groups and real estate agencies in locating suitable housing accommodations for the affected families.

Any relocatee will be able to use low interest mortgage rates made available by the Federal Housing Agency.

The authority will undertake a systematic review of all advertised housing vacancies in Monroe County as well as the periodic listing of the F.H.A.

The report said displaced persons desiring to rent public housing will be given priority

900 To Lose Pennsy Jobs

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Pennsylvania Railroad estimated this week about 900 firemen's jobs in its system will be eliminated in the first year under the government arbitration board's ruling.

The estimate was made soon after the U.S. Supreme Court's rejection of the appeals by railroad unions. The unions opposed the board's sanctioning of the dropping of 90 per cent of the firemen on freight and yard diesel locomotives.

The railroad said the effect beyond the first year cannot be calculated because elimination of jobs through not hiring replacements cannot be estimated.

by the Housing Authority of Monroe County. There are 167 publicly-sited, housing units in the county.

The relocation staff will make an effort to inform all site occupants of the project activities and inform them of their rights and responsibilities with respect to relocation, the report said.

Collected data on vacant housing will be released to area newspapers, radio, as well as on printed pamphlets.

STROUDSBURG — The executive committee of the Pocono Mountains Junior Chamber of Commerce has endorsed a proposal calling for the building of an athletic stadium which would serve Monroe County high schools and East Stroudsburg State College.

At a meeting Monday night, the executive committee named a four-man committee to study the possibility of such a stadium. The committee will submit a position paper to the general membership at its Monday night meeting.

The Pacific Island Trust Territories of the United States include the Caroline, Marshall and Mariana Islands.

Cleanup In Eastburg May 6-8

EAST STROUDSBURG —The Borough of East Stroudsburg will conduct a free three-day trash disposal service for the Borough Wednesday, May 6 through Friday, May 8.

The collections will be made by the borough forces, while the regular collectors will make the usual rounds.

Sterling Cramer, East Stroudsburg Borough manager, urged everyone to gather all the trash or other items which have accumulated around the house and yard for this "Spring Cleanup."

He added, the three-day cleanup will be on one of the days when the collectors are regularly in an area. He asked placement of all the trash collected at the usual location in containers or boxes.

This will be the only free trash collection in 1964, Cramer said, and the borough urges all East Stroudsburg Borough residents to cooperate in the community effort.
